Truro, NS – Environment Canada is advising of freezing rain for Truro and Colchester County this weekend. The last report indicates that the largest amount of freezing rain is expected on Sunday.

The Town asks that residents regularly check the weather forecast if you have travel plans, as we are expecting icy road conditions.

As is the standard practice, our Public Works Department will be on standby with plows and salt trucks. With the amount of freezing rain expected, it will take time for the salt to work and we ask that residents please be patient as we work to clear the streets and sidewalks.

Also, please ensure vehicles are not parked on any Town streets between 1am and 7am, as per the Town's annual parking ban.
